TYPICAL WARNING LETTER COST

A single FDA Warning Letter costs a mid-cap pharmaceutical company $5M to $50M in remediation, lost revenue, production shutdowns, and legal fees — before reputational damage. A Consent Decree can exceed $100M. Roberto's full remediation engagement at $180,000 represents less than one day of production revenue at most mid-size facilities — with a money-back guarantee attached to it. The Big Four charge $250,000 for the same engagement, without the guarantee, using consultants who may have never personally closed a 483 observation.

THE ZERO WARNING LETTER GUARANTEE

Follow the remediation roadmap. Pass the inspection. Or we work for free.

If you followed and implemented the remediation roadmap and the FDA still issues a Warning Letter on what was in the remediation map, we refund every dollar of our engagement fee. No carve-outs. No fine print.
